INTERNATIONAL EXPERT REVIEW
For the Educational and Professional Program of Specialty
186 "Publishing and Printing"
Department of Media Systems and Technologies
Kharkiv National University of Radioelectronics

I, Dr. Amer Abu Jassar, Amman Arab University (Jordan), have reviewed the educational and professional program for specialty 186 "Publishing and Printing" at the Department of Media Systems and Technologies, Kharkiv National University of Radioelectronics.

Being well acquainted with the system of higher education in Ukraine, having longstanding professional ties with Ukrainian universities, and being a graduate of a Ukrainian university myself, I note that this program is modern, logically structured, and fully meets the requirements for training specialists in publishing, printing, multimedia, and web technologies.

The students of the department demonstrate a high level of training, as evidenced by their active participation in the international student scientific and practical conference "Printing, Multimedia and Web Technologies," where they present their research, engage in discussions, and participate in academic debates.

I would also like to emphasize the high level of scientific activity of the department's staff, who maintain active international cooperation. Joint publications, including those indexed in Scopus, confirm the effectiveness and practical relevance of this collaboration. I personally collaborate with Vyacheslav Lyashenko, a researcher of the department. Together, we have co-authored several publications, including papers indexed in the Scopus database, which demonstrates the department's strong research potential.

I consider the educational and professional program for specialty 186 "Publishing and Printing" to be in full compliance with international educational standards, contributing to the development of students' competencies and ensuring their competitiveness in the modern labor market.

Sincerely,
Dr. Amer Abu Jassar
